

Find 'Em, Fool 'Em And Forget 'Em

Anderson East

People, let me tell you 'bout my father
He was known as the meanest, baddest lovmaker in town
He had a reputation of getting 'round all the women
For breaking their hearts, and leaving 'em all crying

And he told me "son, let me give you some advice
Gotta remember this for the rest of your life"

He told me to find 'em, fool 'em, and forget 'em
Remember the fullest
Find 'em, fool 'em, and forget 'em, yeah

I didn't listen to what my father told me
Already gave, gave my heart to you, girl
You walked on it and misused it
Finally broke my heart in two

The way you treated me, wouldn't even treat a dog
Didn't even show, show me no mercy at all

I wish I had found you, fooled you, and forgot you
Like my father said
I wish I had found you, fooled you, and forgot you, yeah
I wish I had found you, fooled you, and forgot you, yeah yeah
I wish I had found you, fooled you, and forgot you, yeah
