

Lying In Her Arms

Anderson East

The clouds hung lower than they should be
Scraping the tops of the trees
The sun pierced through and the flowers are in bloom
It makes no difference to me
Meal's cold and I was waiting for you to warm up
Thought I saw fire everywhere
She came along, not mistaking what I saw
Now we're smoke in the air

'Cause you were the only one I was holding
And I was holding her close
You were the only one I was thinking of
Lying in her arms
Throwing away our love

She was young, she was new, and that's what I wanted
New eyes that shine back at me
But the warmth wore off, and Lord I was left with the thoughts
What I did, I couldn't change

'Cause you were the only one I was holding
And I was holding her close
You were the only one I was thinking of
Lying in her arms
Throwing away our love
Our love

You were the only one I was holding
And I was holding her close
You were the only one I was thinking of
Lying in her arms
Throwing away our love
Our love
Our love
