

Probably

Andra Day

See, I have a couple of birds, they Tell me that you oversell your troubles
But you always did have trouble with the truth
See, I have the homies and my kin who look out for me, and
They could see you pullin' me out of my character
And just when I got myself together

You're always the good guy, I didn't know
Oh, and my heart was wide open
You could choose to be real, but no

You probably tell the world that I hated you
But you know more than anyone, that's from true
I loved you, oh, oh
Probably tell the world I didn't believe in you
But you know more than anyone, I'm solid, boo
I loved you, oh, oh

Now usually I'm (Usually I'm) not one to go back and dwell on the past
But you are one of those special cases, so I got to ask
Myself
Is it worth maybe settin' the record straight?
And no hard feelings, you just loose-lippin'
And you know (You know), you know I'm not comfortable with it

'Cause you probably tell the world that I hated you
But you know more than anyone, that's from true
I loved you, oh, oh
Probably tell the world I didn't believe in you
But you know more than anyone, I'm solid, boo
I loved you, oh, oh

There's beauty in startin' all over, now I know
Oh, and my heart is still wide open
I'm good, and boo, with the things I can't control

So go on and tell the world that I hated you
You know more than anyone, that's so far from true
I loved you, oh, oh
You probably tell the world that I hated you, you, you
And that's so far from true
I loved you, oh, oh

Probably tell them all I
You know, you know
You know
You know, ooh
Yeah, yeah-yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah-yeah
Yeah, yeah-yeah, yeah-yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah-yeah
You probaly tell them all that I'm crazy too
And yeah, I'm crazy, but I was always good to you
