

Deserve to Be Loved

Andrew Allen

Eyes were wide open
You took your first breath
More was unspoken
Than what coulda been said

You look like your mother
So wild and free
I knew I would love you
But would you love me?

I wish I could promise that each time you fall, I'd pick you up
I wish I could promise that every man, would be good enough
And as far as being a woman, you know I can't teach you that stuff
But I promise that I'll teach you how you deserve to be loved

You stole the night sky
The stars and the moon
As far as my heart goes
You stole that too

And I wish I could promise that each time you fall, I'd pick you up
I wish I could promise that every man, would be good enough
And as far as being a woman, you know I can't teach you that stuff
But I promise that I'll teach you how you deserve to be loved

Eyes were wide open
You took your first breath

I wish I could promise that each time you fall, I'd pick you up
I wish I could promise that every man, would be good enough
And as far as being a woman, you know I can't teach you that stuff
But I promise that I'll teach you how you deserve to be loved
You deserve to be loved