

This One

Andrew Allen

Sometimes I wish that I could go back to the first time that we met

Watch us from a distance, hang on every word we said

Tap myself on the shoulder, gently whisper "listen close"

You gotta breathe in every part of her 'cause I know where this goes

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

She's gonna pull you from the shadows, bring you back into the sun

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

This one, this one, you're gonna love this one

Wasn't all that long ago I didn't even know your name

But when I heard it for the first time it was all that I could say

There was always something different from the moment we began

And looking in the rearview, I think someone had a plan

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

She's gonna pull you from the shadows, bring you back into the sun

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

This one, this one

If I could go back, I'd slow down, I'd breathe you in

I'd remember the sun and how it kissed your skin

The smell of your hair and how it framed your face

I would listen to the heart inside me say

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

She's gonna pull you from the shadows, bring you back into the sun

You're gonna love, you're gonna love, you're gonna love this one

This one, this one, you're gonna love this one
