

The Daylight

Andrew Belle

Can't believe she's gone, I...
Can't believe she's gone, I...
Can't believe she's gone away

Darkness was my future
Hopeless were the patterns
Callous was my heart, so it seems

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you
Oh, and I should breathe a little bit softer
Oxygen reminds me I lost her
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you

Can't believe she's gone, I...
Folded on the creases
Tore myself to pieces now

But blessed was the daylight
Flooded my hearts windows
And cleared the smoke that billows out

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you
Oh, and I should breathe a little bit softer,
Oxygen reminds me I lost her,
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you

Peace my body, oh, my soul to find, no I don't mind
Break my hardened heart to show that I, yea I was blind Lay my body on the shore
to find, no, I don't mind
I, I don't mind

Can't believe she's gone
I'm casting out the demons
Letting go of reasons why

Welcome was the daylight
Found where I was hiding
Fought the dark residing there

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you
Oh, and I should breathe a little bit softer
Chemicals remind me I lost her
I, I'm repairing my heart for you, you
