

Run

Andrew Ripp

Pulling both reigns back
Waiting at the gate
Like a wild horse kicking at the foot of the cage I was stuck in
There was always something

Holding me back
Keeping me away
From the fears of tomorrow
I was born to brave
Wouldn't let me
Oh but I was ready

To take a chance and risk it all
To lean in forward till I fall
And catch myself with just one step
And the then the next and then the next

This heart was made to run
This heart was made to love
To let go like a child
In the great wide open wild
This heart was made to live
And taste what true freedom is
Chasing after the one
It was made in the image of
This heart was made to run
This heart was made to run

When the winds at your back
It's an effortless stride
Don't know if your feet are on the ground or in the sky
Does it matter?
It really doesn't matter

Don't need to know
Which way to go
Long as it's not
My way but yours
These reigns
Will break
If I stay

This heart was made to run
This heart was made to love
To let go like a child
In the great wide open wild
This heart was made to live
And taste what true freedom is
Chasing after the one
It was made in the image of
This heart was made to run
This heart was made to run

So take a chance and risk it all
I'm leanin' forward till I fall
Catch myself with just one step
And then the next and then the next

This heart was made to run
This heart was made to love
To let go like a child
In the great wide open wild
This heart was made to live
And taste what true freedom is
Chasing after the one
It was made in the image of
This heart was made to run

This heart, this heart
This heart was made to run