

Star Children

Andrew W.K.

Oh, the universe
Flickering heart beats in their veins
Star children sky high, star children sky high

I never wanna forget, no I don't wanna forget
A little warmth within the time
That takes away my passing days

But for now and for and for now
Waiting alone in my room
Looking at the reaper
Waiting within the sparkling light

Oh, my mind is terrified, kept tied in heavy chains
But I'll break free on some great day

A hundred billion, a million trillion stars up in the sky
Please shine your light down on me
I'd like to believe the star children are true
Hey you kokoro bless me with your powerful grace

I never wanna shudder, I never wanna shudder again

I only want the world to see me as a brave hearted man

Is there anybody, anybody, anybody out there
Who can hear what I say?
With a drop of my tears reflecting the earth
And the light of a brand new day

With a streak of white lightning tearing up the sky
I will raise up a war cry for the world to hear

A hundred billion, a million trillion stars up in the sky
Please smile awhile for me
I'd like to lead the way for star children to be free
May all of their new life be blessed with abundance and joy

Oh, the universe
Flickering heart beats in their veins
Star children sky high
Oh, the universe
Flickering heart beats in their veins
Star children sky high, star children sky high
