

Ain't Done Nothin' Wrong

Andy Griggs

Ain't no crime sittin' at the bar sippin' on a cold draft beer
Or makin' small talk to a blue eyed girl
When she asks, "What brought you here?"
You're just tryin' to unwind on a Friday night

You see that big ol' diamond ring shinin' on her left hand
And you don't bother to ask her why she ain't with her man
You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right

'Cause the right thing to do is turn yourself around
And point those headlights home
'Cause you know it's wrong to carry on
With a woman that ain't your own

Right now you're steppin' on a razor thin line
That ain't quite black or white
You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right

Tosses back her hair and looks in your eyes
And says, "I like your smile
If danger were a winding road
Then son, you just walked a mile"

Then a trouble appears and he's got you in his sight
And he grabs temptation by the arm and says, "Girl, it's time to go"
And you can feel the heat from the fire in his eyes
'Cause just like him you know
You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right

'Cause the right thing to do is turn yourself around
And point those headlights home
'Cause you know it's wrong to carry on
With a woman that ain't your own

Right now you're steppin' on a razor thin line
That ain't quite black or white
You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right

Yeah, right now you're steppin' on a razor thin line
That ain't quite black or white
You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right

You ain't done nothin' wrong
But you ain't done nothin' right
Ain't done nothin' wrong
