

All The Same

Andy Shauf

The greenest grass you'll ever see
Lies silent on the earth
Where I could never be
And the brightest sun that's ever shined
As you walk away
It dances there behind, or so I find
But it's all the same anyway

I'll hold you in the setting sun
Would that be boring
Would it be any fun for you
Maybe I could fix your pain
But what is life if it's always sunny
If there's never any rain
If it's all the same anyway, then it's all the same anyway

You are the mittens to my coldest hands
The purest rain to the driest lands
A brand new friend on a lonely day
Most beautiful girl I'd have to say
Please be mine on this very night
Hands are shaking, knees not quite
It's all the same anyway, well maybe it was but not today

Stay with me this little while because all I know is you make me smile
