

find you again

anees

I like to think that you became a shade of sunset
Transfigured into a whisper of wind
A warmth of summer arm that comforts my skin
I like to think that you're still here
Buried into blankets of grass
Where I lay my head when I just need a moment to breathe
When I just need one more breath to breathe
I think you are the trees
You are the trees

And every day that passes brings me a brand-new reminder
That you're not really gone, you're just hidden in the wind
Woven into moments, something sweeter, so much kinder
Where it ends, that's where you begin
You're the symphony of birds and bees
Through the window, you are the night breeze
In the sunset warmth, you bring me east
When I close my eyes, you're the light I see again
I see you again (I see you again)

And every day that passes brings me a brand-new reminder
That you're not really gone, you're just hidden in the wind (The wind)
Woven into moments, something sweeter, so much kinder
And where it ends, that's where you begin
You're the symphony of birds and bees
Through the window, you are the night breeze
In the sunset warmth, you bring me east
When I close my eyes, you're the light I see again
I see you again

I know I will find you
I know that I will find you
I know that I will find you
I know I will find you again
I'll find you again
Find you again
Find you again
(You and I we will reunite one day)
(You and I we will reunite one day)
(You and I we will reunite one day)
(You and I we will reunite one day)