

Accusations

Anella Herim

You know I can tell when you're lying
Do you even know why you hide from the truth?
'Cause I've tried to fight while you're flying
I'm searching for answers, you're hiding the proof

But you said it was no fair (No fair)
I don't know what it's like when I'm not there
'Cause when I'm out on the road and you're home all alone
You just assume that it's all these girls calling

That I'm getting high and running away
What do you think I'm running from?
Is it a somewhere or someone?
It's just another love story that we'll become
So what's on your mind? You want me to stay
But tell me, what's the point in tryna be someone
That you made up and fell in love with?

Real sick of accusations
You're finding places to put my name in
You got a way of testing patience
I'm thirty seconds from giving in

Know you say it's hard
But we both knew from the start that (From the start)
When I was out on the road, you'd be at home all alone
You just assume it was all these girls calling

That I'm getting high and running away
What do you think I'm running from? (Running from)
Is it a somewhere or someone?
It's just another love story that we'll become
So what's on your mind? You want me to stay
But tell me, what's the point in tryna be someone
That you made up and fell in love with?

Was I not the man you thought I would be?
Can we not pretend you left easily?
Can you see the good in the times we had?
Or do you still think that

That I'm getting high and running away?
What do you think I'm running from?
Is it a somewhere or someone?
It's just another love story that we'll become
So what's on your mind? You want me to stay
But tell me, what's the point in tryna be someone (Someone)
That you made up (Made up) and fell in love with?