

Arise

Anette Olzon

Let them hear

Let them hear
It's time to rise now
Unveil their eyes and make them see it

The chaos made by their own bare hands
Their planets burn from choices made by man

Arise
It is time to change our ways
From now till the end of days
One day is still one day too late
Atone
There's no time to hide in shame
We will all be judged the same
A single match to start the flame

Let them hear

Curtain blows aside, we see it
We see the world for what it is

Turmoil through every corner of the soil
All green has turned, just blood red all the way

Arise
It is time to change our ways
From now till the end of days
One day is still one day too late
Atone
There's no time to hide in shame
We will all be judged the same
A single match to start the flame

Let them hear

The chaos made by their own bare hands
Their planet burns from choices made by man

Arise
It is time to change our ways
From now till the end of days
One day is still one day too late
Atone
There's no time to hide in shame
We will all be judged the same
A single match to start the flame

Let them hear

Let them hear