

Another Universe

Angelo De Augustine

What would it take to break the curse?
I found another universe
One who would have me, one I would belong
In growing tired of the offense
Fateful design, omnipotence
I vowed to use both my hands for love
For love
For love

All I've wanted
I am transported
To another plane
When I close my eyes and lay me down
Oh, when I close my eyes and lay me down

If I created my own world
Minds would be open and unfurled
I'd navigate our way out of the storm
There would be no more hurt or pain
Deliverance wouldn't assuage
The galaxy would be a guide for love
For love
For love

All I've wanted
I am transported
To another plane
When I close my eyes and lay me down
Oh, when I close my eyes and lay me down