

Violent Dawn

Angelus Apatrida

What should you do when word is no longer a valid weapon?
What should you do when anguish clouds all your pacifism?
Now it's too late to show your clean hands and good intentions
No tears, no cries
No peaceful methods, no demonstrations

Think it's time to take control
Time to squeeze their hopes
Bring the human nature to a violent dawn

What should you do when politicians spit on your rights?
What should you do when they send their dogs to bite your ass?
Pay them in kind
Don't let 'em hit you on the other cheek
Every action brings a reaction and consequence

Dignity, integrity, victory
In solitude, your fist will rise with force Morality, ingenuity, stupidity
All these bastards
Are gonna get what they deserve

Fight!

What should you do when you are shedding tears of hate?
What should you do when the entrails explode in primary rage?
Police brutality goes unpunished and well applauded Hanging your rights while they are dripping from bloody sticks

Think it's time to take control
Time to squeeze their hopes
Bring the human nature to a violent dawn