Living Life Right

Anna of the North

I know what you mean
When you're not saying anything
I know how it feels
When you're close to giving in
It's so hard to see things clear
When there's a cloud inside your head
And it won't go away, away

So tired, try to close my eyes
Laying wide awake at night
I'm fine, but at the same time
It feels like I'm not living life right
Something, always looking for something
To try to fix what is broken
Is leaving me without hope and
Maybe I'm not living life right

I know where it burns
I know just how it stings
When you think you don't deserve
Your own happy ending
And when this thought lives tight
Sending signals to your heart
It's hard to break away, away

So tired, try to close my eyes
Laying wide awake at night
I'm fine, but at the same time
It feels like I'm not living life right
Something, always looking for something
To try to fix what is broken
Is leaving me without hope and
Maybe I'm not living life right

I don't get it, I, I don't get it
Can't seem to get it right no matter how much I try
I don't get it, I, I don't get it
I don't know if I'm really living my life right
I don't get it, I, I don't get it
Can't seem to get it right no matter how much I try
I don't get it, I, I don't get it
I don't know if I'm really living my life right

So tired, try to close my eyes
Laying wide awake at night
I'm fine, but at the same time
It feels like I'm not living life right
Something, always looking for something
To try to fix what is broken
Is leaving me without hope and
Maybe I'm not living life right

Sometimes
Maybe I'm not living life right
Sometimes
Maybe I'm not living life right
