

Same Cartoons

Annah Mac

The last time I called you
We were young and into the same cartoons
I guess time left and I missed you
Talking like brothers in winter with cars and the moon

It's strange to see you grown
Not trying to pretend with me
And I guess we're both alone
And I, I don't mind being friendly

It's been so long since I've seen you
It's been so long since I've seen you
Have I changed cos you've changed
From the boy that I once knew and it's been
It's been so long since I've seen you

The last time I called you
We were young and into the same cartoons
I guess time left and I missed you
Talking like brothers in winter with cars and the moon

It's strange to see you grown
Not trying to pretend with me
And I guess we're both alone
And I, I don't mind being friendly

Oh, it's been so long since I've seen you
It's been so long since I've seen you
Have I changed cos you've changed
From the boy that I once knew and it's been
Oh, it's been so long since I've seen you

Now we worry about money
Loans, high interest and rent
Don't remember time better
Than material things that we've spent
Think things over through and through and through
And now we all smoke and drink and fight
I know what the younger in me would choose
Oh, we grow up and we get misused

It's been so long since I've seen you
It's been so long since I've seen you
Have I changed cos you've changed
From the boy that I once knew and it's been
It's been so long since I've seen you

Seen you
Seen you
Seen you
