

Everyday

Anne Murray

Times are hard for true believers
These days nothing stays the same
But through it all we're still together
While broken hearts melt in the rain

You can't put your finger on it
But I know it's more than faith
You ask me how much I love you
Well all that I can say is

Dreams last a little bit longer
Heart beats a little bit stronger
I'm a little bit closer to you every day
Real love you just can't measure
But through the pain and pleasure
I'm a little bit closer to you every day, every day

Yesterday is far behind us
Time just slips away, it's true
You ask me what about tomorrow
All that I can say to you is

Dreams last a little bit longer
Heart beats a little bit stronger
I'm a little bit closer to you every day
Real love you just can't measure
But through the pain and pressure
I'm a little bit closer to you every day, every day

Love takes a lifetime to know

Here in your arms is the safest place I've known

Dreams last a little bit longer
Heart beats a little bit stronger
I'm a little bit closer to you every day
Real love you just can't measure
But through the pain and pleasure
I'm a little bit closer to you every day
Dreams last a little bit longer
Heart beats a little bit stronger
I'm a little bit closer to you every day
Real love you just can't measure
But through the pain and pressure
I'm a little bit closer to you every day, every day