

Running

Anne Murray

What do you do when I tell you to go
And do something that you don't think is right?
What do you do when I tell you to leave
All your love behind you and go on by

Take what you can when you find a new home
Somewhere where they will leave you alone

See them all running?
And off they go
Playing in the greener
Pastures in the snow

Where do you go when your country would send you
To prison because you believe in peace?
Where do you go to find some quiet
When you're stuck between more and the police?
You know that you're trapped, you can't fight, you can't stay
Find yourself somewhere out of their way

See them all running?
And off they go
Playing in the greener
Pastures in the snow

It isn't easy to go away
Who needs brains to go and do what they say?
You can't decide what you think that you might Remember that either way you'll have to fight

Take what you can when you find a new home
Somewhere where they will leave you alone
