

Somebody's Waiting

Anne Murray

When the rooms are all in darkness
And you're knockin' at the door
No one seems to live here anymore
Footsteps in the doorway
Echos in the hall
You know someone's waiting here for you.

When it's cold outside your window
And there's snow inside your shoes
And you're waiting out the cold December blues
Don't hesitate
Three o'clock's not late
You know someone's waiting here for you.

Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting here for you
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
You know someone's waiting here for you.

When the grey clouds roll all over
All your sunny days
And the colours that surround you fade away
Look to your side
Reach out your hand
'Cause you know someone's waiting here for you.

Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting here for you
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
You know someone's waiting here for you.

Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting here for you
Somebody's waiting
Somebody's waiting
You know someone's waiting here for you...
