

Solveig's Song

Anneke van Giersbergen

The winter may pass and the spring disappear
The summer too will vanish and then the year
But this I know for certain: you'll come back again

And even as I promised you'll find me waiting then God help you when wand'ring your way all alone
God grant to you his strength as you'll kneel at his throne
If you are in heaven now waiting for me
And we shall meet again love and never parted be
