Hail

Anouk

They say that sometimes You've got to pick up your arms and fight For what you believe is right Some say That's just not the way You will only make things worse So I close my eyes and turn my head away And I hope it'll be alright Fall into a restless sleep While so many innocent die That's why I sing Hail to all of us Hail to all of us down here Maybe someday soon When we've thought things over We'll know what to do But probably There's a much bigger chance, you see That it will all be gone So I close my eyes and turn my head away And I just hope it'll be alright Fall into restless sleep While so many others die That's why I sing Hail to all of us Hail to all of us down here New York City, London, Jericho Jerusalem, Sydney, anywhere you wanna go Capetown, to the moon and back again Hail to all of us Hail to all of us down here
