

Fine

Anson Seabra

You should thank my mom sometime
She backed me off the edge last night
I found your number called her, crying again
Said tell me
Once again, why this won't work
These feelings wouldn't be the first
But God, it's late
And it just hurts, so won't you tell me to

Leave you alone
I'm fine on my own
I know we've been through this
I should just let you go
But a sliver of hope
Won't let me do it

Fine
I want you back tonight
I won't pretend this time and say I'm through this
And I know you're not clueless
So it's fine
I want you back sometimes
You're always on my mind, and I can't do this
And trying to fight it's useless
So it's fine

I could fill a phone or two
With words I never said to you
With all the ways that I can't do without you
But I know it's not the grownup thing
'Cause broken hearts need time to bleed
And I'm the bad guy already
So don't you worry

I'll leave you alone
I'm fine on my own
I know we've been through this
I should just let you go
But a sliver of hope
Won't let me do it

Fine
I want you back tonight
I won't pretend this time and say I'm through this
And I know you're not clueless
So it's fine
I want you back sometimes
You're always on my mind, and I can't do this
And trying to fight it's useless
So it's fine
Oh, it's fine

It's fine
I want you back tonight
I won't pretend this time and say I'm through this
And I know you're not clueless
So it's fine

I want you back sometimes
But trying again is useless
So it's fine
