

First Choice

Antifreeze

I met you just the other day, from you i stood far away
I didn't know what to say to you, nor I couldn't figure out what to do

I was friends with a friend of yours, I was dying to be yours
I just thought that I should say "goodbye" 'cause I know I could never call you mine

I was dying to be your first choice
While i watched you hang around the other boys
When will the day come that we can fly away
I said we'll leave this stupid world today

You told me how you loved my voice, I was thinkin, baby you are my first choice

Could i be good enough for you, or would all your friends call you a fool

Then one day i sat down to play, i thought of all the words i wanted to say

I'll do anything for you, please tell me today, dream come true