

Tell Me

Antifreeze

I see this faithful everywhere
Lately i'm not fitting in
I really want to believe in you
When I've heard 200 stories
How do I know which one's true?

I can't listen to what everyone will say
Because I need a little more than faith
I'm sorry that I'm so stubborn
Some say you should forgive me if I'm wrong you'll forgive me anyway.

It's the right thing to do,
I want to believe in you
But It's so hard.

Tell me why am I supposed to believe in what everybody does Show me that you really are there, if you really are there.

All I ask is so I can tell
I'f im really gonna go to hell
You created me the way I am
So if I can believe then you should understand