

Plain

ANYA

I love that you don't even know what a filter is
I love that you don't know the names of the cool kids
We'll never be perfect, so let's not try
It's not even worth it, to modify
You love my weaker spots, and I prefer your messy side

You say I'm beautiful
The moment that I wake up
Guess you don't mind
Puffy eyes, messy hair

I'm well aware that
We're not picture perfect
I still want a frame
And there's no need to edit
No, I'll take you plain
Flawless is old news
And I just want the real you
But I know you won't be perfect
I'm well aware of that

I like that you don't know your way around Photoshop
You don't care about the life that's led on a laptop
We'll never be perfect, so let's not try
It's not even worth it, to modify
Your eyes are closed on every single photo of you and I

You say I'm beautiful
The moment that I wake up
Guess you don't mind
Puffy eyes, messy hair

I'm well aware that
We're not picture perfect
I still want a frame
And there's no need to edit
No, I'll take you plain
Flawless is old news
And I just want the real you
But I know you won't be perfect
I'm well aware of that

Flawless is old news
And I just want the real you
Flawless is old news
And I just want the real you

I'm well aware that
We're not picture perfect
I still want a frame
And there's no need to edit
No, I'll take you plain
Flawless is old news
And I just want the real you
But I know you won't be perfect
I'm well aware of that
Flawless is old news

And I just want the real you
But I know you won't be perfect
I'm well aware of that