

The Storm

ANYA

I feel the eggs cracking underneath my feet, I hear a hollow sound
I wander restless through a ghost street, but I don't get around
I try to sing a little through clinched teeth, but I don't make a sound

There's a queen inside of me, she wears an icy crown

And the, snow is falling on warm skin
A desperate attempt to recall what was whispered in the wind
So, trust me you are gonna miss spring like a baby misses the womb, the baby misses the womb

But your mama can't keep you safe
Your mama can't keep you safe
Your mama can't keep you safe, no
Your mama can't keep you safe

The sky turns black and blue, bright purple clouds
It's black in my view, so I can see the stars
The rain's soaking right through, like a deadly weapon
The storm might have a friendly name, but I don't trust her for a second

And the, snow is falling on warm skin
A desperate attempt to recall what was whispered in the wind
So, trust me you are gonna miss spring like a baby misses the womb, the baby misses the womb

But your mama can't keep you safe
Your mama can't keep you safe
Your mama can't keep you safe, no
Your mama can't keep you safe

Turn up your collar, keep your head down, lift your shoulders, just be sure to close your heart and put up your guards
Take lots of showers, muster strength, found the power, clinch your teeth and play the part, play the part

Snow is falling on warm skin, I'm desperate, I'm desperate
So, trust me you're gonna miss spring
Trust me
Trust me

But your mama can't keep you safe
Your mama can't keep you safe

Your mama can't keep you safe, no
Your mama can't keep you safe (Turn up your collar)
Don't you know (Sure to close your heart and put up your guards)
She can't keep you safe (Sure to close your heart and put up your guards)
Desperate, I'm desperate (She'll keep you safe)