Ignorance breeds fear, breeds hate, breeds violence Everything falls down and breaks in silence We could forgive and then forget and start over We could finally try it stone cold sober No more dark clouds over the horizon

We killed it in cold blood Did it for so long God rest her soul Until there was no love Until it was all gone Nothing could grow We killed it in cold blood

Loneliness is the curse of the broken hearted I came undone and you just fell apart Maybe some distance can heal us both now We had it one but we lost it somehow Maybe the dark clouds are finally behind us

We killed it in cold blood Did it for so long God rest her soul Until there was no love Until it was all gone Nothing could grow We killed it in cold blood

Ignorance breeds hate breeds violence Everything breaks down in silence Your ignorance breeds hate breeds violence Everything breaks down in silence

We killed it in cold blood Did it for so long God rest her soul Until there was no love Until it was all gone Nothing could grow We killed it in cold blood
