Birds

Apparat

Your head's a busy place A port for thoughts coming back Like ships flown overseas While swarms of birds passing by

If I could catch a thought sometime I'd put it in a safe place To the elements I've got And next time I would check it would be gone

Until single spark ignites it to new light Until single spark ignites it to new light Until single spark ignites it to new light And it comes back to you finally getting through

Your heart's a messy place A giant garbage dump For all feelings you can't handle That's where you bury all of them And wait 'til they decay

Until single spark ignites them to new lies Until single spark ignites them to new lies Until single spark ignites them to new lies And it comes back to you finally getting through