Undone

Aranda

When I close my eyes only for a moment
I can see the light, but the darkness is calling
Pulling me down, taking me up to emptiness below.
I can't hold it back, I'm letting go of the innocence again.

And if you ever feel ashamed,
Like you're the one to blame
And the weight of all the world
Is on your shoulders crushing you.
When the walls are closing in
You gotta fight it from within
Will you rise above the pain
Or will you simply come undone?

Every single lie, every promise broken
It leads me to the other side, all the life going no where Pulling me down, taking me up to the emptiness below
I can't hold it back, can't let it go
Will I ever live again?

And if you ever feel ashamed,
Like you're the one to blame
And the weight of all the world
Is on your shoulders crushing you.
When the walls are closing in
You gotta fight it from within
Will you rise above the pain
Or will you simply come undone?

I found a little salvation there under the midnight sun
I gotta fight this fear inside of me 'cause I got no where to r un.

And if you ever feel ashamed,
Like you're the one to blame
And the weight of all the world
Is on your shoulders crushing you.
When the walls are closing in
You gotta fight it from within
Will you rise above the pain
Or will you simply come undone?

Will you rise above the pain or come undone?
