15th moon

"If you were mine" I scream silently
"If you were mine" echoes forever

The gravity of this painful love if I try to pull away from it, I find I'm already past my limit
Earlier on the phone, you lied about where you were with a fake smile

If I could rewind tonight to the point that even you were feeling lonely
Without hesitation, I'd draw you in to feel this pain too

15th moon I'm just barely hanging on, but it's crushing me
If it was alright to embrace you, I'd surrender myself to the full moon like this
"If you were mine" I scream silently

A love I should have understood was locked away deep in my heart
Trapped within your lies, I'm like a prized fish suffocating

Even in my dreams tonight, I know I wouldn't be touched by you
But in real life, I feel like I'm close to reaching out and grabbing your arm

15th moon release me from these twisted, tangled thorns
If I didn't care about getting hurt, then first I'd break this glass heart of mine
If you were mine...
If you were mine...

15th moon I'm just barely hanging on, but it's crushing me
If it was alright to embrace you, I'd surrender myself to the full moon like this

15th moon release me from these twisted, tangled thorns
If I didn't care about getting hurt, then first I'd break this glass heart of mine

"If you were mine" I scream silently
"If you were mine" echoes forever
