So that we'll definitely meet again

I wonder just how far I've walked with you through this changing landscape
As the colors are added, the world becomes brighter
Even if the eras change, the seasons will keep coming around so hold on to your multi-colored dreams
In the middle of all these meetings and farewells, we're searching for the reason for living, aren't we?

When I touch your hand, I can feel it
The warmth embraced even my pain

We were surely born so that you and I would meet here and now
When it seems the tears will overflow, I'll always take them in for you
The twinkling of the stars and the whisper of the wind
You are living while feeling them my heart

I wonder since when the feelings that I wasn't afraid to have became normal
As time flows, strong bonds are made

Even if we're apart, I can always feel it
The gentle wind will carry my voice to you

You and I are always watching miracles on this same star
Even if they may be small, I believe in things that are definite
So you won't be tainted by sadness
I'll always be by your side my heart

So that we'll definitely meet again

We were surely born so that you and I would meet here and now
When it seems the tears will overflow, I'll always take them in for you
The twinkling of the stars and the whisper of the wind
You are living while feeling them my heart
