To carry on

No matter what kind of night begins today is born
That'll be a new morning that no one has seen before

On a crowded train, is hope riding too, or is it only anxiety that we are moving over for?

Explain the reason why I won't fall asleep
Because if someone tells me, it will surely get easier

Where are we in the middle of going to, I wonder while we are hesitating
We'll still continue to look up at the sky
Doubting ourselves just hold the weakness as it is and keep walking forward

No matter what kind of rain, when it stops, a rainbow will be born
Suspending a bridge to a far, far away place

If the cuff of my jeans gets soaking wet
It's okay to stop and not be in a hurry

Tell me your precious dream
Because I can't just easily say something like "do your best"

Where will we finally arrive at? we were carried away
We'll still continue to admire our dreams
Believing ourselves with just strength

We'll yank open the door to the future

If there are dreams that don't come true too
Are you going to give up already?
Feel the things that you can't see
With hope and wishes
To carry on hold them tightly yeah

Don't lose sight of your "tomorrow"
Let's chase after an unending dream
The rain has stopped if morning comes
Then our dreams will shine again

If there aren't dreams that don't come true
Let's try believing again
Feel the path that you can't see
On the path only for you
To carry on one step at a time is okay yeah
To carry on the future is waiting yeah

To carry on
