The number of strawberries on the cakes at that store have decreased
The tea has also become somewhat bland
Things will definitely change like that
It's a little sad, but we have to accept it

The sweet feelings suddenly become bitter

I wonder why we are afraid of things changing
When we laugh at the things that don't
As much as is possible, I want to stay as I am now
The days that I think that, I wonder how my future self will look back on it

When I was a student, I was someone who had to do things right away
Now, I'm not like that at all I feel like I'm shining
That's why right now I don't want to go to my class reunions
I'd compare myself with them in another five years, it might be okay though

When you face forward, the wind suddenly gets stronger

Although I know I've got to change, I keep making the same mistakes
Falling into the same kinds of love and getting hurt
As much as is possible, I want to stay as I am now
How I feel when I think that, whether I'm fooling myself or that's how I really am, I can't tell
