Always being rushed, you're about to break (warning...) that's the moment when you get violent
Unable to sleep, you greet the morning in my head, there's a question even if you block your ears, the voice will reach you
At this rate, will you really be happy with how you are now? (warning...) everything's becoming even more distorted
If you know the answer, then hold my hands yeah we closed our eyes

I'm having a strange dream now
I have a bad feeling and though it's tiny, empty, and warped, but I can't stop it

Impossible things all around there's no choice but to confront them
Seeming like "a direct proportion" at first, these feelings were actually "inversely proportioned"
I don't understand a thing, but there's something I know I want to see
In our endless world, we play this game over and over again
Where will you go? if you wish for it, you can set off any time a "replay" that starts from zero
Heading to a desperate phase even if we can never go back again

This and that, in other words, everything you do is careless (warning...)
Before I knew it, I'd been swallowed whole questions were pointlessly reflected inside my shell
Though you were this close to me already (warning...) I pretended not to see you
If you don't want to know (answer) no then cling to it in your heart

Wandering aimlessly
We're being swayed by an impassive love

Let's throw away our sadness and face each other
It's not a lie or the truth
Everything's worthless, but I want to keep believing
My memory rewinds itself as the world becomes dim
What's on the other side? let's open that door
A reset that connects to reality
We should continue towards the conclusion even if we can't see an answer the

Just unable to tell anyone anything (silence)
Only time continued to pass as I was in doubt even then, go forward

Because it should always be there, it's something that's constant
The things we've lost and the things that are being born
Not everything in this world is difficult, right?
In your heart, you sighed endlessly

Let's throw away our sadness and face each other
It's not a lie or the truth
Everything's worthless, but I want to keep believing
My memory rewinds itself as the world becomes dim
What's on the other side? let's open that door
A reset that connects to reality
