Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Those eyes are now looking at the wind
Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Rather than tears, they are filled with a deep brilliance
And smiling

Even that cool lipstick suits you
Acting like you're hiding the wings on your back inside of the show window

It rustles and whispers
Sways and flutters
It's dark and shiny
Your black hair

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Those eyes are now looking at the wind
Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Rather than tears, they are filled with a deep brilliance
And smiling

You had just gotten to the top of a long curving hill
Probably going to our meeting place too early yet again

Shaking and flickering
The air is shimmering in the heat
As if on your straw hat as well
The sound of the cicadas chirping rains down around us

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Those eyes are now looking at the sky
Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Rather than tears, they are filled with a deep brilliance
And smiling

That sadness I'd shut away inside of my heart
It's clattering and making noise
But I don't notice it anymore

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Those eyes are now looking at me
Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
Rather than tears, they are filled with a deep brilliance
And smiling

Oh love you, love you, your eyes with delight
