Gazing at a summer twilight, alone in a warm breeze
I could hear cheerful voices somewhere
The long days spent with you, they absolutely won't end
Being able to walk beside a smiling face, it felt like yesterday

Unconsciously thinking back, I noticed that I had stood still While I couldn't change anything

The days that don't have enough of you in them still not able to get used to them, I made it this far I'm searching for you again, though it might be too late a shard of love was stuck into this heart

The heavy rain won't fall on this day that the sky is a pale blue
We put an end to this at that little store in front of the station
In my black tea that was getting cold, the landscape from the window floated to the surface
The memories were sweet and bitter and painful to the point they were burnin g

I made mistakes about what I wanted to tell you in those days
If I could go back, I'd want to go back right this instant

I realized if I had just been honest, there would have been only one answer
I should have called out to you when my voice could still reach words of lov e that aimlessly go on

When I'm in a daze, I say "ah..." once again
The smile from back then is still here now
Your voice echoes again I wonder if that's ridiculous
My feelings are still all upside down (ah)

Going to a place where the night view is beautiful Saying things that are ordinary Without meeting your eyes, I put my hand on your shoulder
You were troubled and said, "say something"

The seasons that pass by are taking you far away
I wonder what I will find in the seasons that pass by

The days that don't have enough of you in them still not able to get used to
them, I made it this far
I'm searching for you again, though it might be too late a shard of love was
stuck into this heart

A shard of love that was broken
