From the TV that I turned on in place of an alarm clock
Came the laughter of some person from a city I didn't know
For some reason or another, I also let a smile escape
I woke up late on a sunny morning

10 years ago I dreamed of my current self
Now I say, "in 10 years? I don't know"
Someway, somehow, it felt the same
As when I talked with you on that early afternoon

Unintentionally, that's how we lived in that flowing time
The things important to us were the reason for each of our smiles
We are searching for today

Riding on the wind of the passing seasons that dream of mine had begun to shine
From here it will connect to a new future I'll walk on that path that stretches out
Even if people have sadness they can't talk about or if dark days continue
If they pick up the pieces of radiance scattered about, they'll feel like they can go forward a little more

From his blog that I found by chance
Came the laughter of some person from a city I didn't know
For some reason or another, I started to cry
I just couldn't sleep at all on that night

How should I live? there's not a single answer
The things that are important to me are the shape of my happiness
Everyone is searching for that

Riding on the wind of the passing seasons that dream of yours had begun to shine
It'll definitely go that far someday it'll fly around in that wide sky
Even if they say, "things don't go as you want them to" at a time when you like you're being crushed
We'll definitely take your hand so don't worry believe and keep going forward
Don't wait for miracles, go in the direction the sun is shining

In the darkness, there's a beam of light
Like it's only there to guide you, sparkling, shining
Taking along this pain into the future
The orange sky darkens again

Are we living for the sake of living?
Someday when the time is right, I'll look back on those chances
In this present, don't wait for miracles, go in the direction the sun is shining

Riding on the wind of the passing seasons that dream of mine had begun to shine
From here it will connect to a new future I'll walk on that path that stretches out
Even if people have sadness they can't talk about or if dark days continue
If they pick up the pieces of radiance scattered about, they'll feel like they can go forward a little more
