Clouds of sand whirl high while I pass others and they pass me
I'm on a road to my ideal future betting on a 1mm difference, we'll have a match

I'm over weight, I've got to throw something out how about the smile pasted on my face?

Using your experience, sift through the things burdening you

Hey, here we go!

There's nothing but rocks to trip you up even if you count up the passing days

They won't change push your way through the thorns and head for the future

The signpost in your heart will take you to a place only you can get to Take a step and another let yourself get fired up inside
If you start on a path that no one's taken before, new miracles can happen
There's no time to hesitate in the end, you'll smile believe in your smile

What you really think and the attitude you show others, use them for different things

There are times when you can get through by bluffing too

Use the way society sees things and rumors to your advantage and try to win
High risk, high return bets and forced interpretations there are times those are needed too

As long as you don't forget those unwavering feelings, everything'll be ok

Hey, here we go!

Unexpected developments will also lead to a conclusion

If everything was easy, it'd be boring twists and turns are natural, right?

When you keep praying, the signpost will show you the scenery you imagined
By chance? or fate? that's not it as long as you believe strongly
When your heart beats fast, a power like you've never seen before will appear inside

It's not for anyone else's sake in the end, you'll smile believe in your smile

Uh if you're blown by strong winds, fight against them

Right now, push forward powerfully with those legs

The signpost in your heart will take you to a place only you can get to Take a step and another to the days we were waiting for

See? if you start on a path that no one's taken before, new miracles can happen

There's no time to hesitate in the end, you'll smile believe in your smile
