A breeze like the one from that day was blowing

Your smile never comes my way

"From now on, we'll always be together"

That was something that should have never changed

I stuffed only the clothes I liked the best into last night's bag
And I put on sneakers which we bought as a matching pair

We counted the different names of summer, while watching the waves that formed at the pool

My friend, dear friend we decided it standing together

I watch you from the side as you nodded yes gently, my fingers covered yours
My friend, dear friend feeling a bit shy, we kissed

There was an announcement the bus was leaving

One extra ticket is still in my right hand

I heard a voice calling my name

My phone had connected to yours and you spoke with a small voice

Everything in front of me went dark with depression but, probably, I can't go back anymore

I put my foot on the bus's step, heading for the future

Tell me the different names of summer the foot of that bridge where we'd walked together

My friend, dear friend as it draws closer, my thoughts come to a stop

I open the window, shouting out your name it made a sound deep in my heart

My friend, dear friend the city I saw blurred a little with my tears

Now, if I get off the bus, I'll smell the scent of grass

Although the season is spring, like it was back then I'm also just as immatu re

When I remember, the threads of my memory reel me in What was carried with the scenery I saw was your scent
With the light in the background behind you, your form was cast into shadow
Why is inside my heart this hot?
When I suddenly notice it, I start sweating
Similar to the one from those days, another wind begins to blow

The moment we met
Even apart, I won't forget it
The many kinds of summers I spent with you
I don't think I'll forget them

Tell me the different names of summer the foot of that bridge where we'd wal ked together
My friend, dear friend as it draws closer, my thoughts come to a stop
I open the window, shouting out your name it made a sound deep in my heart
My friend, dear friend the city I saw blurred a little with my tears
