Another dawn has come when the bright light shines into someone's heart
Rather than thinking of the days long past, they'll want to find something new and walk forward

With both your worries and hopes stay as you are Entrust one of your wishes to the passing wind

One step even ordinary days one step
One step joy and sadness all of it is precious
One step just wanting these feelings to reach you one step
One step without ever pausing, our melody will play
If we can share our tears, we'll be okay

The words you have on hand weren't enough to describe the emotions that'd been growing inside
But though you might be told you're awkward, because you can't lie to yourself, you raised your head

Hiding my tears, I showed a smile
I can still hear the feelings from those days talking to me

One step keep believing in a single heart one step
One step this road will always be connected
One step even with your regrets one step you promised it to yourself
One step the faraway future will come someday
If we smile and hold each other tight, we'll be okay

The rain stops and we start walking again, feeling slightly different than yesterday
Hey everything has a meaning

Of the nameless scenery from then of the endless dreams we'll meet someday
We'll sing a song that no one has ever sung before
We'll tell our feelings to the sky above

One step even ordinary days one step
One step joy and sadness all of it is precious
One step just wanting these feelings to reach you one step
One step without ever pausing, our melody will play
If we can share our tears, we'll be okay
