"Well, I'm going now ah, this isn't farewell, y'know because we'll meet again"

From a hill we look down on the town that day, what did we see?
We'd finally gotten to be alone that day, although we were shy

"Tomorrow early in the morning, I'll be taking the train towards the city"
After our graduation, we found the tiny school building in the cityscape

At that time, you murmured the phrase, "don't go"
I held on to an unseen dream

"Even if we're apart, I'll always be thinking of you," I said
My heart aches so much now, I can't take it
I told you good-bye over the phone while the seasons were passing by
The amount of time when we couldn't meet and the distance between us we couldn't win against it

Coming through, coming through ah ah
One time two time yo, yo, check 1,2

On the back of my coat, the color of your sweater was still left there
Without fading, there's the scent from the moment of a kiss

Somehow it seemed like you'd grown up but you said was just because of the lipstick
If it was now, however, I could think of various reasons

You pretended to take away my one-way ticket as a joke
And forced yourself to be awkwardly happy

"If we're apart, it might be hopeless for us," you contradicted with your heart

ad hung

I wrapped your shaking shoulders in my coat

Although I remember so many smiles from you, it came to an end there

Even if I forget about it, somewhere in my heart, it won't be forgotten

At that time, you murmured the phrase, "don't go"

I held on to an unseen dream

I told you good-bye over the phone while the seasons were passing by

The amount of time when we couldn't meet and the distance between us we couldn't win against it

From a hill we look down on the town the something that you saw that day

Recently, I suddenly think I understood what it was too

Meeting you, falling in love with you, it will remain inside of this body

The scenery I gazed at with you will always be playing there
