

Everything Ends

Architects

I started looking for a new way out
Stranded on an island
There's nothing but the ocean now
Every second is a battleground
Over the horizon, can anybody hear me shout?

When I try to pick a fight
Know that I was going under
And if it don't feel right
Blame it on the weather
It's another night breathing into blood and thunder
Tell me how I'm meant to pretend

[Chorus]

I could be the last one killing the pain
Changing like the seasons, wishing for rain
Don't stand me up to reason all over again
'Cause I'm dying here, but everything ends

If I'm left alone, I'm bound to drown
Don't you hear the silence, broken by the siren sound?
If I swim, they'll only drag me down
I'm tired of the violence, it's hard to get my head around

When I try to pick a fight
It's only 'cause I'm going under
And if it don't feel right
I'll blame it on the weather
It's another night breathing into blood and thunder
Castles only I can defend

[Chorus]

I could be the last one killing the pain
Changing like the seasons, wishing for rain
Don't stand me up to reason all over again
'Cause I'm dying here, but everything ends

I could be the last one killing the pain
Changing like the seasons, but wishing for rain
Don't stand me up to reason all over again
'Cause I'm dying here, but everything ends

If I fall too far, and I live this down
Like a dying star, it's over and out
I drop my guard, then I hit the ground
No rain drops will heal the drought

[Chorus]

I could be the last one killing the pain
Changing like the seasons, but wishing for rain
Don't stand me up to reason all over again
'Cause I'm dying here, but everything ends

Everything ends
Everything ends
Everything ends
