All This World

Arco

pale and clear the light of dawn evening's laughter long gone even love a forgotten need draw the shade and face the day feel illusion float away hold the dream and let it free how many strangers d'you have to meet?

how many old friends d'you have to see?
with how many lovers d'you have to sleep?
to know that you're alone in all this world feel the fear and let it pass hear the questions no-one asks close your eyes and let them see how many strangers d'you have to meet?

how many times kneel at your god's feet?
with how many lovers d'you have to sleep?
to know that you're alone in all this world
