

At Least

Arco

so he lied and now your doubt burns like a flame and you're crying wondering if your love can ever be the same and you're tearing up inside at all the heartlessness he's shown but at least you're not alone so she needed more than you'd thought you would give and you're empty like a shell and wondering what it means to live and you're tearing up inside at all the chances that you've blown

but at least you're not alone

so it's evening and i'm staring at the wall and i start to wonder if my friends are ever gonna call and i'm tearing up inside at all the silence i'm scared of but at least i'm not in love