Undone

Arco

first to leave the party; last one off the train take a deep breath as you start your life again the discord on the doorstep; a tune in borrowed keys and the long wait for release five to two and i can't let this stupid night go it's nothing new familiar as any feeling i know quietly empty failure's staring at me there must be better ways to be unhappy back when i was younger, before the world stepped in i was what i might be one day. now i'm only what i've been and the things undone that keep you living the same old way keep tomorrow from today
