

Last One Falls

Arion

In the darkness, I am walking
Through the haze hopelessly roaming
My hands and feet are stained with blood and clay

Devastation now unfolding
Desolation slowly dawning
The chaos in my mind will never fade

And now I'm here
Building the pyre
And now I'm here
I still wonder why

I walk through the fire
I stand by the burned, collapsing walls
I hear the choir
The humming of angels, silent calls
What am I fighting for?
Why I am searching for new hope?
'Cause when the last one falls
None of it matters, In the end we lose it all

Smoke and dust, slowly fading
Rising sun, new dawn breaking
But still the roses die and all I see is gray

Ruins of war, storm is raging
And when there's nothing left here worth saving
In the end world is lost to falling rain

And now I see
How heaven is crying
And now I see
Nothing but lies

I walk through the fire
I stand by the burned, collapsing walls
I hear the choir
The humming of angels, silent calls
What am I fighting for?
Why I am searching for new hope?
'Cause when the last one falls
None of it matters, In the end we lose it all