

Unforgivable

Arion

The silent calls
Way above the world within the falling waterfalls
Nothing heard inside these wealthy walls

A nation's fall
Neverending, weary world war is raging on and on
And soon the world we love is gone
We made it our whore

We lie within the slowly worn, elasticated walls
That fallen, withered world we all can see before they fall
And Mother Earth will take her toll inside our hearts withal
We should have realized so long ago that what we've done is unforgivable

When the castles burn
There's nothing we have learned, our desolation earned
The beauty of our life can't be returned
Unlike before
The kin we've sacrificed to cry before the throne
And soon there's nothing left to pay the toll
We're all responsible

We lie within the slowly worn, elasticated walls
That fallen, withered world we all can see before they fall
And Mother Earth will take her toll inside our hearts withal
We should have realized so long ago that what we've done is unforgivable

And soon the world we love is gone
We're all responsible

We lie within the slowly worn, elasticated walls
That fallen, withered world we all can see before they fall
And Mother Earth will take her toll inside our hearts withal
We should have realized so long ago that what we've done is unforgivable
It's unforgivable

It's unforgivable