

Seven Against Thebes

Arrayan Path

I never break a promise given
I will crash these city walls
Another war, another sign
Standing in front of your seven deadly gatesYour betrayal act is unforgiven
You smell the stench of rotten soul
Oh Father had thy been alive
With your eyes you would see what we've becomeThe seven march across the plains
Oh seven men who lost their way
The seven lords the throne to claim
A brotherhood that ends in shame
The seventh gate, a man of wisdom
Oh the brave Amphiaraus
Finally our duel has begun

He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
But what if your fate, it was to be slain
By the hand of your own bloodCan't you see the curse of the Gods, they are laughing
Suddenly you know your brotherhood it won't mean nothingThe seven march across the plains
Oh seven men who lost their way
The seven lords the throne to claim
A brotherhood that ends in shame
The seventh gate, a man of wisdom
Oh the brave Amphiaraus
Finally our duel has begunHe came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
But what if your fate, it was to be slain
By the hand of your own bloodHe came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
He came with all his glory and a heart of stone
Oh the moon so high, I will fly there when I die
And my war hymns will write themselves