

The Last Of The Burned

Art Nation

Time to time
We forget about all those lives that no one cares about
Whose lives that were born and free
But they never had the chance to feel what life could be

We need to face the truth, because otherwise we lose
We need to do it now

We fight the war of change
We need to understand
We need to be the one who is tearing down the walls
Can't you see it, that we have to break the chain
Before it's too late
We're the last of the burned
Now we need to return to our world

Crime as crime, can't you see in those eyes
That they are fading out and shout it out so loud

We need to face the truth, because otherwise we lose
We need to do it now

We fight the war of change
We need to understand
We need to be the one who is tearing down the walls
Can't you see it, that we have to break the chain
Before it's too late
We're the last of the burned
Now we need to return to our world

Fight the war of change
We need to understand
We need to be the one who is tearing down the walls
Can't you see it, that we have to break the chain
Before it's too late

We fight the war of change
We need to understand
We need to be the one who is tearing down the walls
Can't you see it, that we have to break the chain
Before it's too late
We're the last of the burned
We're the last to return
